RBI dy guv calls for more green funding

Mumbai : Reserve Bank of India deputy governor R Gandhi on Friday said incorporating environmental concerns into commercial lending is a challenge in a country like India. "The challenge before developing economies like ours is to mainstream green finances, so as to incorporate environmental impact into commercial lending, while simultaneously balancing the needs to economic growth and social development," he said at a conference on sustainable finance here. "We have to develop the instruments. We have to balance out the green development and economic development," he said speaking to the reporters later.

The new priority sector lending requirements announced by the RBI include devoting money to social infrastructure and small renewable projects, which will help support the objective of sustainability finance, he said. The central bank also has been working on various other aspects, he said, adding a working group has been formed to look into it. Additionally, the sebi has also worked out norms for raising money through green bonds, through which domestic financial institutions, like exim bank and yes bank have raised $1.1 billion in 2015, Gandhi added.
